Dear Doctor,

Center for Vein Restoration (CVR) is expanding its operations, and is seeking talented cardiothoracic, vascular and general surgeons like you to join our clinical team.

CVR is the largest physician-led vein treatment medical practice in the country. Our sole focus is the diagnosis and treatment of venous insufficiency, the cause of varicose veins and spider veins that affects more than 30 million Americans. With 21 locations and growing, we treated more than 10,000 patients, performed over 6,500 ablations in 2011 alone, and we pride ourselves on a patient satisfaction rate of over 97 percent. And, we continue to push for excellence in the field with our ongoing research into venous disease and our busy roster of CME courses.

A critical part of CVR's strategic growth plan is to work with local physicians in new markets who share our ethos of efficiency, patient care, teamwork, practice growth and passion for treatment in the quickly evolving field of venous disease. We offer physicians the opportunity to join our team on a contractual, part-time or full-time basis as well as the freedom to maintain activity in their current specialty. We offer competitive compensation, and we also stress work-life balance, providing our physicians freedom from late-night and weekend hours, hospital calls, and the frustration of an inefficient work environment.

One of our representatives will be in touch with you in the coming weeks to gauge your interest and to answer any questions. Until then, please feel free to contact: Bob Howell, Director of Growth and Development at (855) 828-8346, or physician.practice@centerforvein.com.

In the meantime we invite you to visit our website, www.centerforvein.com to learn more about our practice, our team and our approach.

We look forward to meeting with you.

Respectfully,

Sanjiv Lakhanpal, MD, FACS
